

New Emerging Team (NET) Transitions in Pediatric Palliative and End of Life Care
Announces New Graduate Students

- Our NET is pleased to welcome the following research trainees for the 2006-2007 school year:

Greenly Ho – Greenly is a Ph.D. student in Psychology at Simon Fraser University. She plans to study the relationship between culture and the palliative care experience of children with life-threatening illnesses and their families throughout the illness trajectory. Greenly's NET supervisor is Dr. Betty Davies

Sarah Derman – Sarah is pursuing a Master's degree in Nursing at the University of British Columbia. Her area of interest is independence, autonomy, and parent-child relationships in adolescents with progressive neuromuscular diseases. Her NET supervisor is Dr. Rose Steele

Niki Paley – Niki is pursuing a Master's degree in Counselling Psychology at the University of British Columbia. Her research interests are in the area of coping in couples who have lost a child to a life-limiting illness. Niki's NET supervisor is Dr. Susan Cadell.

- The NET has also recently welcomed new affiliated students to our team. These students are:

Marie-Claude Gregoire – Marie Claude is a fellow in Pediatric Pain and Palliative Care at the IWK Health Centre in Halifax and a PhD student in the Interdisciplinary Studies program at Dalhousie University

Alyssa Walls – Alyssa is a Ph.D. Nursing student at the University of California San Francisco

- The following research trainees and affiliated students continue to work with our team:

Meaghen Fletcher Johnston – Meaghen is pursuing a Ph.D. in Social Work at the University of British Columbia

Harvey Bosma – Harvey is also a Ph.D. Social Work student at the University of British Columbia

Aara Amidi-Nouri – Aara is a Ph.D. Nursing student at the University of California San Francisco

Lillian Rallison – Lillian is a Ph.D. nursing student at the University of Calgary